THOU SHALT NOT KISS THE DEAD .- There died in Geneva an old man of the time-honored Jewish persuasion, who not alone left behind him an immense fortune, but also a character for extended benevolence. And the Israelites came from far and near to attend his funeral. And there were Rabbis of Geneva who made fine speeches, and there were Rabbis from other lands who spake also, and in Abraham's bosom. Now there was one Rabbi from Calmer, in France, who opened his mouth wide in praise of the departed brother.

He spake and said: "Twenty years ago, when I passed, a poor, starving wanderer, through this town of Geneva, this good man lent me two hundred francs to ease my rough road toward Calmer, and never to this day has he asked a farthing of the interest or capital of that kind loan. He will find his Thus spake the Rabbi and departed again toward his home, with his beard wet with tears. But lo! when he arrived in the bosom of his numerous family there came to him a summons to appear before a court. The heirs at law of the defunct Rothschild had a bill against him for two hundred francs, which he was obliged to pay. With many groans, he was compelled also to disburse compound interest for twenty years, and the tears which he shed were of no avail. The heirs had brought the entire Jewish community of Geneva as witnesses of the debt, and thus came true the trite saying "thou shalt not kiss the dead."
